

Web-based Information Science Education

ALISE Breakfast Meeting
January 11, 2005
Update on Faculty Development Issues & Opportunities

1. ALISE Workshop
2. Exemplary Syllabi
 - Draft version on WISE website
 - Three to plawton@uiuc.edu by Feb. 1, 2005
3. Bibliography of Online Teaching and Learning in LIS
 - Draft version on WISE website
 - Additional citations invited
4. Online Teaching Modules (see next page)
 - One introductory course offered monthly
 - Several specific sessions running M-F
 - Short one-time events
 - WISE faculty write content and deliver first offering
 - Session materials available via the WISE website
 - Archive all sessions
 - Cap at 20 participants
 - Use Sakai
5. Faculty Development in LIS Online Pedagogy
 - Current Practice in LIS: Who is doing what, and how / a continuum of increased sophistication
 - The Possibilities: What is known about faculty development. For example: how promotion and tenure play into teaching online, time spent teaching online, predictors and levels of faculty satisfaction, development and methods, challenges and rewards of teaching online.
 - Best practices: how to improve an already good course, online community.
 - Draft by March 1, 2005 to website
6. Learning Objects Clearinghouse
 - Launch pilot in May 2005.

- See DREI website <http://128.230.185.43/index.cfm>

7. ALA Chicago